

Cookie Whipped: what we found, and how we would help

Prepared for your Marketing + Content Lead opening · September 16, 2026 · Public checks of cookiewhipped.com

IN ONE PARAGRAPH

The store is fast, indexed and already speaks to corporate buyers in its main headline. The gaps sit right where your 2027 plans are headed. Your search description still leads with baby showers and birthdays, the LinkedIn link goes to a personal profile rather than a company page, and we could not confirm the tracking that tells you which Meta boosts actually sold cookies.

WHAT IS ALREADY WORKING

- The Shopify store loads over HTTPS in about 0.7 seconds on our check.
- A Google Ads tag, email signup and live chat are installed.
- The headline "Custom Cookies + Live Experiences That Make Your Brand Unforgettable" speaks straight to corporate buyers.
- A sitemap is referenced in robots.txt, structured data is present, and a public site search shows good indexing.
- Facebook and Instagram are linked, and the footer is current for 2026.

FINDINGS BY RISK

Ad tracking	Medium	GA4 and the Meta Pixel are not visible in the page code. Shopify can load them through its customer events, which do not show from outside. You run Meta boosts and want a weekly report. Without confirmed purchase events there is no way to tell which boost sold cookies. A quick check in your Shopify admin settles it.
LinkedIn	Medium	The LinkedIn link on the site goes to a personal profile, not a company page. HR teams and corporate planners check the company page first. It is the base for the 2027 corporate outreach.
Search description	Medium	The meta description leads with "Fort Worth, TX serving DFW! Custom cookies for any occasion: baby showers, weddings..." and does not mention corporate events or live activations. It is the text under your name in search results. Your growth focus should be in it.
Headings	Medium	The homepage has four H1 headings, and one of them is empty. Several main headings blur what the page is about. Your corporate headline should be the single H1.
Image alt text	Low	9 of the 36 images on the homepage have no alt text. Alt text helps accessibility and image search, which suits a product this visual.

WHAT WE WOULD DO FIRST

- Confirm GA4 and Meta purchase events in Shopify so every boost shows up in the weekly report.
- Set up a LinkedIn company page and build the first B2B list of HR teams, hospitals and corporate planners.
- Lay out one calendar for Halloween, the Signature Wedding Set launch and the holiday season, with the reel schedule for your video editor.
- Rewrite the homepage description and headings around corporate events and live activations.
- Flag any deadline at risk in the first week, not the third.

A USEFUL WAY TO START

If you bring us on for this role, the first week includes a starter list of Fort Worth and DFW corporate contacts, with each email checked before anything is sent, at no extra cost.

WHO WE ARE

Balay ni Bruno & Co. is a small operational support studio. You hire one person and get a team behind them: websites, email, social content, CRM automation and reporting that all speak with one voice.

- For JR Signing Services, a Texas notary signing agency, we built a lead database of 1,800+ contacts and run daily email and LinkedIn outreach.
- We run social content, email and paid ads for Freccia Construction, a custom builder in Austin, Texas.
- We build and run Shopify stores, including srivierehair.com for a haircare brand we work with now.

HOW WE CHECKED

Checked from the outside on September 16, 2026: homepage code and headings, tracking tags, robots.txt and sitemap, structured data, image alt text, linked social profiles, a public site search of your domain. We did not log in to anything and we have no access to your analytics or ad accounts, so anything below marked not checked is exactly that.

- Your Shopify admin, including customer events and apps.
- Your Meta ad account, email platform and social insights.
- Page speed scores, because Google's PageSpeed service did not respond during our check.
