

Kletterling: what we found, and how we would help

Prepared for your Creative Strategist opening · September 16, 2026 · Public checks of kletterling.de

IN ONE PARAGRAPH

Kletterling is in strong shape from the outside: a fast Shopify store, well indexed, a second language live, and one of the most complete social footprints we checked this week. The one thing that matters most for a creative strategist is measurement. We could not see your Google or Meta tracking in the page code, which on Shopify usually means it loads through customer events. That is fine, as long as purchase events are confirmed before any creative test gets judged.

WHAT IS ALREADY WORKING

- The Shopify store loads over HTTPS with a mobile viewport set.
- Email signup and live chat are live, structured data is present, and a Dutch version of the store is in the sitemap.
- Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, YouTube, Pinterest and LinkedIn are all linked from the site.
- A public site search shows good indexing, and the footer is current for 2026.

FINDINGS BY RISK

Ad tracking	Medium	GA4, a Google Ads tag and the Meta Pixel are not visible in the page code, even though you run Google and Meta ads. On Shopify this usually means they load through customer events. Weekly creative testing only works if purchase events reach Meta and Google for each concept. Worth confirming in Events Manager before reading results.
Homepage heading	Medium	The homepage H1 heading is empty. Your core message sits in the title tag only. A written main heading helps search engines and matches ad messages to the landing page.
Age range	Low	The meta description says toys for ages 1 to 10, while this job post describes ages 1 to 6. If the range has changed, matching it keeps ad claims and site copy consistent.
Image alt text	Low	8 of the 63 homepage images have no alt text. Alt text helps accessibility and image search, and a quick pass fixes it.

WHAT WE WOULD DO FIRST

- Review competitor ads in the Meta Ad Library in the first two weeks and summarize what is working and why.
- Read your reviews and support tickets and sort them into parent fears, wishes and objections.
- Deliver 5 to 10 briefs a week with hook, message, visual idea, call to action and format.
- Confirm purchase events per campaign so every test result can be trusted.
- Say what to test next in the weekly call, and later write landing page and product page copy.

A USEFUL WAY TO START

If you bring us on for this role, the first week includes a written competitor ad review with the top angles we would test first, at no extra cost.

WHO WE ARE

Balay ni Bruno & Co. is a small operational support studio. You hire one person and get a team behind them: websites, email, social content, CRM automation and reporting that all speak with one voice.

- For Freccia Construction, a custom builder in Austin, Texas, we set up the paid campaign launched this month, including tracing leads from the ad into their CRM before any budget was spent.
- RJ served as Marketing Director at Top Producer Investment Capital, shaping what social and email campaigns said.
- We use AI tools daily for research and first drafts, and can show the workflow on a call.

HOW WE CHECKED

Checked from the outside on September 16, 2026: homepage code and headings, tracking tags, robots.txt and sitemap, structured data, image alt text, linked social profiles, a public site search of your domain. We did not log in to anything and we have no access to your analytics or ad accounts, so anything below marked not checked is exactly that.

- Your Meta and Google ad accounts and Events Manager.
- Your Shopify admin, customer events and Klaviyo.
- Page speed scores, because Google's PageSpeed service did not respond during our check.
