

KW Peninsula Estates: what we found, and how we would help

Prepared for your Marketing Coordinator & GoHighLevel Specialist opening · September 16, 2026 · Public checks of kwpeninsulaestates.com

IN ONE PARAGRAPH

The GoHighLevel site is technically solid: fast, indexed, GA4 installed and every homepage image labeled. The gaps are in how the business is described to search and social rather than how the site is built. The description Google shows for you is generic, and we could not see a Meta Pixel, which matters if listings or agent recruiting ever run on Facebook or Instagram.

WHAT IS ALREADY WORKING

- The site loads over HTTPS in about 1.4 seconds on our check.
- GA4 and a live chat widget are installed.
- A sitemap with 459 pages is referenced in robots.txt, and structured data is present.
- All 25 images on the homepage have alt text.
- A public site search shows the site is well indexed, and Facebook and Instagram are linked.

FINDINGS BY RISK

|                    |        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|--------------------|--------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Search description | Medium | The meta description reads "Explore top real estate services with a community focus. Learn more! Peninsula Estates." This is the text people see under your name in search results. It does not mention CoLabs or the marketing concierge service, so a searcher cannot tell what makes you different. |
| Ad tracking        | Medium | We could not see a Meta Pixel in the homepage code. Without it there is no retargeting audience and no conversion data from Facebook or Instagram for listings, open houses or agent recruiting.                                                                                                       |
| Headings           | Low    | The homepage headline is split into two separate H1 headings: "MAKING REAL" and "ESTATE PROUD". Search engines read these as two headlines. One H1 is clearer.                                                                                                                                         |
| Social channels    | Low    | Only Facebook and Instagram are linked from the homepage. Agents and coworking members often check LinkedIn first. A linked company page is a quick credibility add.                                                                                                                                   |
| Footer             | Low    | The footer copyright shows 2025. A small trust signal, simple to update.                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

WHAT WE WOULD DO FIRST

- Set up a structured request intake in GoHighLevel that feeds Trello, so designers get complete briefs the first time.
- Rewrite page titles and descriptions for the main pages, including CoLabs and the concierge service.
- Confirm the Meta Pixel and form conversion events in GoHighLevel, then test lead routing end to end.
- Document every workflow and automation as it is touched, so nothing becomes a black box.
- Send the Marketing Director a short weekly view of what is in progress and what is stuck.

A USEFUL WAY TO START

If you bring us on for this role, the first week includes a written map of your current GoHighLevel workflows and forms, with anything broken or duplicated flagged, at no extra cost.

WHO WE ARE

Balay ni Bruno & Co. is a small operational support studio. You hire one person and get a team behind them: websites, email, social content, CRM automation and reporting that all speak with one voice.

- We build and maintain GoHighLevel for Freccia Construction, a custom builder in Austin, Texas: CRM, email, workflows and follow up, plus social content with weekly Reels and paid ads.
- For JR Signing Services, a Texas notary signing agency, we built a lead database of 1,800+ contacts and run daily email and LinkedIn outreach.
- RJ previously ran marketing for Cavalry Realty Group and served as Marketing Director at Top Producer Investment Capital.

HOW WE CHECKED

Checked from the outside on September 16, 2026: homepage code and headings, tracking tags, robots.txt and sitemap, structured data, image alt text, linked social profiles, a public site search of your domain. We did not log in to anything and we have no access to your analytics or ad accounts, so anything below marked not checked is exactly that.

- Your GA4 data, GoHighLevel workflows, email deliverability and ad accounts.
- Page speed scores, because Google's PageSpeed service did not respond during our check.
- Social follower and engagement numbers.
